

DEATH OF MAJOR PEYTON

THE PROCTOR OF THE UNIVERSITY
QUIETLY PASSES AWAY.An Honorable and Useful Life Closed—Lectures Will be Suspended Monday
The Day of the Funeral.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA, April 17.—Special.—Major Green Peyton, proctor of the University of Virginia, died from heart failure about 1 o'clock last night, at his home on East Range.

Major Peyton's health has been very bad for years, and he had been confined to his room for several days previous to yesterday, when he came down into his office and remained there transacting business until 2 o'clock, when he had a fainting spell, which compelled him to go to bed. During the evening he had several more attacks, but rallied later. About 12 o'clock he became suddenly worse and passed peacefully away, surrounded by his family.

HIS LIFE.
Major Peyton was born in Richmond eighty-eight years ago. He was a son of Gen. Bernard Peyton, of Farmington, near Charlottesville. Major Peyton was a civil engineer by profession, and was connected with the Norfolk and Western railroad, and assisted in the construction of the Western part of it.

Major Peyton was a bachelor of Arts of the University of Virginia. He married

MAJOR GREEN PEYTON.

He was a member of the University of Virginia in 1868, but was turned out by the Board of Trustees in 1871. He then established the Albemarle Bank, at Charlottesville, and was cashier until the Democratic party came in power, when he was again elected proctor of the University, which place he held up to his death.

He was made proctor of the University of Virginia in 1888, but was turned out by the Board of Trustees in 1891. He then established the Albemarle Bank, at Charlottesville, and was cashier until the Democratic party came in power, when he was again elected proctor of the University, which place he held up to his death.

Two brothers survive him—Colonel Bernard Peyton, of Santa Cruz, Cal., and Colonel Thomas Peyton, of Richmond. His wife and four children also survive him—Mr. Charles C. Peyton, of Dulles, Va.; Mrs. Charles C. Peyton, of "Hollywood," near the University; and Misses Julia and Imogen Peyton. The latter two were at his bedside when he passed away.

His funeral will take place on next Monday morning at 11 o'clock from the University chapel. Dr. H. C. Lee, rector of Christ Episcopal church, Charlottesville, will officiate, and be followed by other clergy. The remains will be laid to rest in University cemetery. The following are the pallbearers: Judge J. H. Lee, Dr. George Perkins, C. P. Benson, Dr. Tucker Smith, J. H. Corbett, W. R. Duke, Frank Gilmore, and R. T. Martin.

CHATEAU BY THE SEA.

Secures Papers of Incorporation—Drowns in Cases—The Gouloints.

NORFOLK, Va., April 17.—Special.—The Chateau by the Sea, a hotel, which had been here for some time, was incorporated to-day by Judge Hancock of the Corporation Court. It has an authorized capital of $25,000.

This afternoon Tom Clarke, a colored man, was knocked down by a street car, and was taken to the hospital. The man was not seriously injured, but he was taken to the hospital for observation.

The battleship Maine left the yard this morning for a committee of the United States, which will sail for New York on Monday.

The form arrived to-day for stores for the fleet in Hampton Roads.

Yesterday Joe Brady, a colored man living at Deep Creek, was drowned in the canal near Wallcuton. Brady was at work on a coal lighter and fell overboard. The body was gotten out immediately, but life was extinct. A physician examined it and said that death was caused from heart disease and that the man died before touching water.

DEEP INGRATITUDE.

A Trump Notes His Benefactor—Mass Meeting to Secure the State Convention.

ROANOKE, Va., April 17.—Special.—A tramp giving his name as W. A. Offenmuller, who had been kindly provided for by Dr. Vogel of this city for the month, left his residence on Jefferson street this morning taking it is claimed $100 belonging to his benefactor.

Offenmuller and a companion had been working about Dr. Vogel's premises and had made a very favorable impression on the family.

A large and enthusiastic mass-meeting was held at the courthouse here to-night over which Hon. A. P. Staples presided to advance the interests of Roanoke as the place for holding the Democratic State Convention. Speeches were made by J. Allen Watts and W. A. Glasgow and resolutions were adopted routing the advantages offered here to such a gathering and authorizing the chairman of the meeting to appoint a committee of five to confer with the State Committee and urge the claims of this city.

Bishop Charles B. Galloway, of Jackson, Miss., stopped here to-day while on his way home from New York and will preach at Grace Memorial and Trinity Methodist churches to-morrow.

Glass That Cost a Large Sum Broken by a Stone.

Mr. M. Arnold, the popular manager of the Globe Clothing House, had a lively chase yesterday morning about 9:30 o'clock.

The run was not premeditated on the part of Mr. Arnold, but was involuntary. Thomas Thompson and Willie Jackson, two small colored boys, got into a personal encounter near the corner of Seventh and Broad streets, and a rock-battle ensued.

One of the rocks flew past the head of one of the combatants and went through one of the handsome and costly plate-glass windows of The Globe store.

Mr. Arnold ran to the door and saw a small dragoon scolding down Broad street.

"There he goes," shouted the other boy. "Haltless as he was Mr. Arnold sped after the boy. His heavy weight and short legs were not equal to the occasion of overtaking the boy, however, and he yelled for assistance in the capture of the boy."

Near the corner of Ninth and Franklin a gentleman headed the boy and caught him. He turned the youngster over to Mr. Arnold, who returned to the store with the captive, declared that it was the other boy.

The boys were arrested and carried to the Second station, where they were registered for a hearing to-morrow morning. Willie Jackson was bailed.

The glass that was broken cost $35.

ST. CHARLES HOTEL SOLD.

Mr. Emanuel Raab Purchased the Property for $20,000.

That well-known property, the St. Charles Hotel, at the corner of Main and Fifteenth streets, has been sold to Mr. Emanuel Raab, and the deed of bargain and sale for it was recorded from Mr. W. C. McDowell, who is the manager of Ford's Hotel, said last night that it was simply a sale to Mr. Raab, and that he had no part in it.

The property is expected to increase in value when the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company build their proposed new railway station near the corner, where the hotel is located.

The hotel was burned last night, and had been bought the property, as an investment, that was all.
